As one of the top 250 agents in the country according to The Wall Street Journal, Hohnen has created a thriving business out of repeat clients and referrals by giving each buyer and seller individual attention. Architecturally significant and unique properties are her forte: she sold two Frank Lloyd Wright designed homes in the last year alone. With an expert eye for finding properties that make her clients money, Juliette has earned a reputation as being the ultimate professional with far reaching relationships within the community and is undoubtedly one of the hardest working women in the business.
